Another Placer Strike Reported

Frank Calbreath writes Down from Telegraph Creek that Coarse Gold Has Been Found On Whiting River---Miners Rushing In

The latest news from the headwaters of the Taku and Stikine rivers, a letter from a reliable source, is even more sanguine than that of a week ago. It is to the effect that coarse gold in paying quantities has been found on still another river, this time the Whiting.

The chart reveals the fact that Whiting river empties into salt water at Snettisham, and heads between the Stikine and the Nahlin, being about forty miles from the latter. The country there is reported to be about the same as that of the Nahlin, the two rivers rising in the same range of hills and apparently deriving their treasures from the same deposits.

In speaking about the latest find

Frank Calbreath writes after confirming the gold strike on the Nahlin reported in last week's Sentinel, that it looks as though the strike is a big one, and one well worth looking up. The country between the Stikine river, which is navigable and on which the Hudson Bay Co. steamers ply every season, and the Whiting, is open and rolling, so that a horse can be driven anywhere and trails constructed at very little cost. It abounds in big game, is well watered and has plenty of timber, and in the summer season has a delightful climate. In winter it is quite cold, the thermometer falling as low as fifty or sixty degrees below zero, but as it is dry, with very little wind, the cold is invigorating and not particularly uncomfortable, as evidenced by the fact that many persons winter there in tents every year.

The headwaters of the Whiting can be reached by less than two hundred miles of travel from Wrangell, three-quarters of which is on the river steamers, which deliver you at Telegraph Creek or Glenora in from three to five days from the time the wharf at Wrangell is left. From there the rest of the way, not to exceed fifty miles, is made by pack train, and so easy is the transportation, that supplies can be landed at the end of the trip for not to exceed ten or twelve cents per pound. The necessary supplies for the trip can be secured here in Wrangell for very little advance over the rates charged in Seattle, which will make the new camp the cheapest and most accessible gold camp that the world has ever seen.

Lengthening Launch Helen

Richard Hofstad's launch Helen was hauled out of the water the latter part of last week into Fletcher's boat house. She will be lengthened out fifteen or sixteen feet, refitted, and a more powerful engine installed, preparatory to putting her into commission on the West Coast mail route about the first of July. Those interested think that it were better to put the Helen on the run than to place the Baronoff in commission owing to the relatively small volume of business on the run.

Had a Good Time

Mrs. T. J. Case and her two sons, after a trip to Ketchikan and vicinity, returned home on the City of Seattle, Tuesday. They report having had a most enjoyable time.

Will Start For Home

Fred C. Miles, who was compelled by ill-health to spend the winter in California, writes that he will leave San Francisco en route for home on the 24th. He is much improved in health and is anxious to get back to Wrangell.

The Weather

"Whatever the weather may be," says he—
"Whatever the weather may be—
It's the songs you sing
And the smiles you wear
That's making the sun shine ev'rywhere."
—Riley.

A bouncing baby boy was born to Nels Ronneng and wife Sunday morning.

By the same mail some samples of coal were received from the same region. The letter accompanying the samples failed to state whether the coal seams were of much volume or not, but the assumption is that they are, as assays of them are asked for, and tests will be made at once. If coal is there in any quantity it will go far in the development of the country, as the fuel question is always an important one.

pouring into the country and many of them will return shortly with enough of "the needful" in bright, shiny dust and heavy nuggets to see them through life without trouble or worry about the morrow.

A PROMISING OUTLOOK

The latest word from up the river is better than ever, and shows conclusively that the reports of a gold strike in that region are bona-fide. Elsewhere in this issue of The Sentinel you will find the latest from the field telling of the finding of more precious metal on the headwaters of the Whiting river, fully forty miles from that reported in last week's Sentinel, on the Nahlin. This means that the find is an immense one, distributed over a territory large enough for thousands of men to delve and find their fortunes in. It upholds the judgement and the faith of the men who have stayed by that country showing that that region, instead of being worked out, has not even been prospected as yet and that the future holds in store for it a great promise.

In recommending the creation of a bounty on wolf scalps in this district the Ketchikan grand jury was certainly on to its job. If there is one thing above many that is needed it is some organized attempt to eliminate the wolves. When one stops to figure out how many deer a band of ten or twelve wolves must make away with in the course of a year, the result is appalling. A bounty is the only way to dispose of the pests, but this paper is of the opinion that $5.00 is not enough. Put a bounty on them big enough so that it will be an object for our hunters to get out and hunt for them in or out of season.

A recent dispatch from Washington says that Congressman Sulzer has succeeded in his long time efforts to secure more lights for Southeastern Alaska. He induced the lighthouse board to put in their estimate to congress enough money to build an ocean lighthouse at cape Chacon and acetylin lights at Dewey rock, Mellen rock and Jumbo island, in Dixon's entrance and Cordova bay. The sundry service appropriation bill will carry the money necessary for the immediate establishment of these important lights, and they will be erected or installed and in operation before the end of the year.—Ketchikan Miner.

At Indianapolis a man was arrested for stealing a sack of potatoes and sent to jail, where he was forgotten by the officials and laid there 104 days. It was then discovered that the man had never seen the potatoes at all. It was all a mistake and the poor devil had no redress.—Exchange.

That's almost as nice as some of the miscarriages of justice with which this region has been blessed of late.

We in this region are getting rather tired of holding our ears to the ground listening for Delegate Wickersham to make a noise like a man accomplishing something. Bills aplenty he has introduced, but where, oh, where, are those he has had passed?

The administration of justice through the Alaskan courts has been the subject of continuous and persistent scandal. It has been repeatedly charged that decisions were bought and sold like butter and eggs. As a result of these persistent charges of corruption there has been a complete change in the the judgeships, and so far as the present information indicates, President Taft's judiciary is composed of clean men—Hampton's.

"It just makes my blood boil with indignation, as it does all true Alaskans, to get to talking about Alaska's treatment at the hands of the government. It is little short of an outrage that men who have spent the best years of their lives in the North, developing the resources of the country, adding something real and tangible to the wealth of the nation, cannot secure coal even to heat their houses, to say nothing of coal to develop still further the natural resources. The government takes a position which makes it appear that we are attempting to steal something when we try to secure coal claims. Even the men who have made Alaska the valuable possession it is, get nothing but the worst kind of treatment."—Martin Harrais of the Tanana.

Alfred Brooks, of the geological survey, has gone on record as favoring the immediate opening of Alaska coal lands. He avers that the development of the district is retarded by the withholding of the coal from commerce.

Price, large bottle, 100 full doses $1.00—and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year.

Nyal's Spring Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torped liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. Honor Their First Chief

This paper was in receipt of a communication last night which we publish herewith. We consider it eminently fitting and proper that the firemen of Wrangell should honor the man who did so much toward the organization of their company. This paper joins with them, it has never had a word of criticism of the actions of Mr. Snyder, when as the editor of The Sentinel he labored so faithfully and so well toward the upbuilding of the town and region. It respects him for his work as fire-chief, for his efforts in the local chamber of commerce, for his attitude on public matters—it respects and honors him for all of things. As a newspaperman, as a citizen, he is all that a man should be, as a dispenser of justice he is not.

Herewith is the communication as received:

SNYDER BANQUETED

A banquet was held in the Wrangell Hotel, on Saturday evening last, by the members of the Alert Fire Co. No. 1, in honor of A. V. R. Snyder one of the organizers of the company and first Chief.

The company assembled at 9 o'clock p. m. and sat down to one of the most sumptuous spreads ever prepared in Wrangell and all did justice in partaking of the rich viands. After supper had been disposed of so satisfactorily Mayor McCormack, the toastmaster, made a few remarks well fitted for the occasion and on behalf of the company presented Mr. Snyder with a beautiful German silver fire trumpet bearing this inscription:—"Presented to A. V. R. Snyder, first chief of Fire Department, by Alert Fire Co. No. 1, April 16, 1910."

Mr. Snyder responded with feeling and after thanking the company gave a short address calling the company's attention to the necessity and importance of keeping up the organization.

Toasts and songs were indulged in until midnight, winding up with the familiar "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The boys voted the spread one of the best and one that did credit to the "chief" and others concerned in preparing the supper.

Those present were, A. V. R. Snyder, P. C. McCormack, J. C. Ensley, Harry Gartley, David Oliver, J. E. Worden, J. G. Grant, John Kolb, Howard Winter, J. H. Wheeler, Ed. Lindman, Clair Snyder, Will Snyder, George Klauquits, H. H. Hungerford, J. C. Johnson, John Hogstrom, David Lewis, Leo McCormack, Frank Farrer, Bert Foote and L. A. Olson.
